Attempt to End Strike Fails

MARTIN. AIDES LEAVE MEETING WITH KNUDSEN

Labor Leader Says His Stand Remains Same as in
Last Week

BOTH CHARGE VIOLATIONS

1,950 Men Ordered to Stay in Fisher Body Plant

DETROIT, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Attempts of General Motors and the United Automobile Workers to open negotiations on wages, hours and working conditions failed today.

"Present conferences are all off," said Homer Martin, strike leader, as he left a meeting attended by William S. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors, and other corporation officials. "Our stand is the same as we announced last week."

Statement to Follow

General Motors made no announcement immediately, but Knudsen said a statement would be issued later.

Accusations made today by each side were:

MARTIN—General Motors violated the truce by attempting to reopen its Cadillac plant here; by agreeing to bargain collectively with non-union employees; by denying the right of picketing at the Guide Lamp Plant, Anderson, Ind.

GENERAL MOTORS—The union violated the truce by refusing to remove sit-down strikers from all plants by this morning. Martin, saying General Motors was guilty of "bad faith" and "double-crossing," ordered 1,950 men to remain in Fisher body plants Nos. 1 and 2 at Flint. They were to have gone home yesterday afternoon under the terms of the agreement reached at Lansing at the behest of Gov. Frank Murphy.

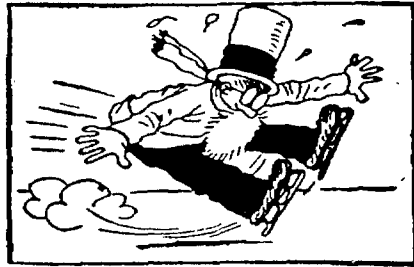

Accusation Hurled

The deadlock came early today after a Sunday of accusation and counter-accusation. Martin came out of a smoke-filled room in Flint union headquarters and said: "The reaction of the automobile workers to what can only be termed a double-cross by the corporation after they had proceeded to carry out the union side of the agreement is such that they would not now evacuate the Flint plants under any circumstances until a settlement is reached."

Gov. Murphy, who had planned to leave last night for Washington to attend the inauguration of President Roosevelt, remained in.

BOLESZAWSKI, 47, NOTED DIRECTOR OF FILMS, DIES

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Richard Boleslawski, 47, distinguished Polish motion picture director and writer, died here yesterday from a heart attack.

Apparently in good health, Boleslawski was stricken as he sat reading in his home. He died before a physician could be summoned.

In addition to his work as actor, director and writer, Boleslawski won fame as a writer for his book, "Way of the Lancer," which was a best seller several years ago.

He came here in 1929 to direct pictures but found difficulty in obtaining engagements. During a lull in film work, he started writing "Way of the Lancer."

Among his film successes were "Clive of India," "Les Miserables," "Manhattan Madness," and "Rasputin and the Empress."

Currently he was directing Joan Crawford and William Powell in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney."

COLD WEATHER PREDICTED FOR F. D. CEREMONY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Weather forecasters today expressed hope that typical "Roosevelt weather" will prevail Wednesday when Franklin D. Roosevelt is inaugurated for his second term.

The hope was tempered, however, by apprehension lest a disturbance in the northwest section of the country might spread fast enough to bring rain or snow to the capital on Jan. 20.

Weather bureau officials said it appeared definite that Wednesday will be cold, with temperatures at or near the freezing mark.

A gusty rainstorm which swept the Washington region early today will have passed out to sea before nightfall, the bureau said. Whether the northwest "complications" will spread fast enough to bring precipitation here within the next 48 hours was uncertain.

REBEL WARSHIP SHOOTS BOMBS AT BARCELONA

BARCELONA, Spain, Jan. 18.—(UP)—A rebel warship believed to be the cruiser Canarias bombarded Barcelona today, aiming 25 high-explosive shells at the naval seaplane base.

Several shells fell in the neighborhood of the base without doing appreciable damage. One shot hit the deck of the government gasoline vessel Campillo, moored at the San Beltran wharf, and injured the engineer. The vessel was little damaged.

The Montjuich shore batteries replied, forcing the vessel to flee. During the bombardment, the city's population dived into bomb-proof shelters.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Earl E. Spencer, Chicago businessman, died at 6:55 a. m. today, the fourth victim of the Western Air Express crash of last week.

The businessman, president of the Stromberg Electrical company, had been sinking for the last day. He suffered a skull fracture when the huge transport pancaked on a snow-capped peak last Tuesday.

Arthur L. Loomis of Omaha, Neb., died yesterday after being under an oxygen tent since Friday. Pneumonia resulting from exposure while awaiting rescue was blamed for his death.

BALKAN STATES DISPUTING OVER VILNA DISTRICT

Lithuanians Charge Polish Violate Frontier Trying

TROOPS ESTABLISH POST

Territory Sought by Two Countries Since 1920

KOVNO, Lithuania, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Tension in the disputed Vilna district was increased today after what Lithuanian sources alleged to be a violation of the Lithuanian frontier by Polish troops.

According to the Lithuanian version, Polish troops tried to cross the frontier near Lake Dukla, but retired when a warning shot was fired. It was alleged that the Polish troops reappeared Saturday and established a post, with two machine guns, 15 yards across the frontier in Lithuanian territory.

Lithuanians in the area protested and demanded that the governor of the adjacent Polish district investigate on the spot. The governor, it was asserted, said he was busy but would investigate Jan. 25.

18 Shots Reported

Warsaw reports regarding the incident are that Lithuanians fired 18 ineffectual shots at Poles who were replacing a broken sign post on the frontier.

Vilna is claimed by Lithuania. Its claim was before the League of Nations when in 1920 a Polish force seized the area. Subsequently the league awarded the territory to Lithuania. Poland and Lithuania remained technically in a state of war over the matter and never have reached an agreement.

LANCASTER CAB DRIVER ADMITS STORY UNTRUE

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Clifford Brosky, 30, Lancaster, O., cab driver, who reported to police he had been kidnapped and forced to drive to Pittsburgh, today admitted his story was fabricated to obtain money and gasoline to return to Lancaster.

Brosky told Burgess C. C. Dittmar of Ingram, that he drove here to visit his father, recovering from an operation in his home near New Kensington. Returning to Lancaster, Brosky ran out of gas and made up the kidnap story.

Man Stabbed to Death While Whalen Speaks

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Ten persons still wearing evening dress were questioned by police today in an effort to identify the man or woman who rose from a banquet table in the glass ballroom of the old Manhattan opera house last night and fatally stabbed a guest.

They were among the 677 guests at a testimonial banquet in honor of Barney Shapiro, executive secretary of the Affiliated Ladies Apparel Carriers' Association. It was a gay affair until someone plunged a knife into Frank Cicero.

There had been entertainment and dancing. Glasses had been tinkling. Only two major after-dinner speeches were scheduled, one by former Police Commissioner Grover Whalen and the other by Former General Sessions Judge Jonah J. Goldstein.

Whalen Speaking
The toastmaster introduced Whalen. The guests applauded. The popular "official greeter" under former Mayor James J. Walker started his speech on "a substitute for the National Recovery Act."

72 BURNED TO DEATH ON FAST CHINESE TRAIN

HONGKONG, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Seventy-two persons were burned to death when flames, claimed to have been started by an arsonist, swept through three coaches of a speeding Canton-Hongkong train. It was officially announced by railway officials today.

The fire was blamed on an unidentified Chinese who boarded the train at Sheling station carrying two cases of celluloid bangles which he placed in separate cars. They were believed to have been set on fire by a timing apparatus. No motive for the act was indicated.

Lack of a communication cord made it impossible to warn the engineer and the train speeded on with flames, whipped by the draft, roaring through the three coaches. Three of the persons burned to death were found hanging from windows.

SEIMER DEMANDS $503 FOR LOSS OF TEAM, WAGON

John Seimer, Elm avenue, filed suit in common pleas court Monday against Elizabeth Cannata, Robert Bachman, and the Cannata Trucking Co., Columbus, asking $503 as a result of the traffic accident Sept. 17, 1936 on S. Court street.

Mr. Seimer says he was driving a team of horses, hitched to a wagon, across Court street at Corwin street when his wagon and horses were struck by an auto driven by Bachman. The petition says Elizabeth Cannata and the Cannata Trucking Co. have an interest in the car.

Mr. Seimer asks $150 for each of his horses, $13.50 for damage to the wagon and harness, veterinary expense of $8, and $181.50 for loss of a hauling contract with the Container Corp.

Ohio River Menacing Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Jan. 18.—(UP)—The Ohio river spilled over its banks here today and government weather observers predicted floods or high waters throughout the Ohio valley as the result of heavy week-end rains.

At Marietta on the upper Ohio, and at Cincinnati, the temperature here today and government weather observers predicted floods or high waters throughout the Ohio valley as the result of heavy week-end rains.

The official forecast today indicated that fair and colder weather probably will avert devastating floods. Rainfall Sunday averaged from .96 to 1.14 inch in the river valley. Additional rain would create flood conditions that might parallel those of 1913.

The river here was at 53.1 feet at 10 a. m. The flood stage is 52 feet. W. C. Devereaux, U. S. meteorologist, said a crest of 58 or 59 feet would be reached by late Tuesday or Wednesday.

Flood warnings were issued along the river as the rise continued from Pittsburgh to Cairo. Tributaries such as the Muskingum, the Miami and the Kentucky were swollen.

At Marietta, the river was at 35.1 feet, compared with a flood level of 36 feet. By Wednesday, the stage will be at 42 feet there, flooding river front places and a few business establishments, according to Meteorologist R. P. Powell.

ONTARIO HUNTS 34 FUGITIVES AFTER ESCAPE

GUELPH, Ont. Jan. 18.—(UP)—Officials of the riot-torn Guelph reformatory announced today that a "tentative" check indicated 40 of 70 inmates had escaped during yesterday's rioting.

Squads of heavily armed provincial police swept through the countryside in search of the prisoners. The manhunt was the greatest ever staged in southern Ontario. Police of all towns within a 100-mile radius were warned.

Prison heads said the situation at the institution was "quiet." They said the prisoners were calm and orderly, and that it appeared certain the outbreaks were at an end.

Deputy Provincial Secretary C. F. Neelds, who rushed here from Toronto yesterday to take active charge at the reformatory, said today reports damage to the buildings would total $250,000, were "ridiculous." He said loss by fire, water, smoke and damage to furniture and equipment would not exceed $25,000.

HIGHWAY WORKERS WARNED OF DANGER

Route 104 Damaged by High Water, Forcing Continuation of Detour; Route 23 Open but May Be Ordered Closed Again

NEW WASH-OUT REPORTED ON RT. 22

Another Inch of Rainfall Recorded in City
Sunday, Boosting Month's Total to Five

Additional flood waters were expected to surge into Pickaway county Monday afternoon or evening that may close highways reopened to traffic Sunday.

The highway department was notified Monday morning to remove no more detour signs and to prepare for a second rise in the flood waters as the result of heavy rains in the area north of Circleville.

Two state highways in Pickaway county were still closed Monday morning, and from all indications they will not be reopened for some time.

Route 104 Damaged

Although Darby creek has been falling rapidly and was not crossing Route 104 at Dewey park, the road has been washed-out and repairs must be made before it can be opened. Approximately 100 feet of the highway has been damaged.

The Scioto river was level with Route 22 Monday morning, but water was not crossing the road. This road will remain closed as the river is expected to begin a steady rise. The roadway has been damaged by the flood water, the back surfacing being torn out in some sections. Considerable work will be required on the road before it can be reopened.

Route 23 Open
Route 23, north of Circleville, was opened to traffic at midnight Saturday but whether or not it would remain open Monday was a puzzle to the highway department.

Traffic going west out of Circleville was being detoured through Fox, the same route as used last week. If Route 23, north, is closed late Monday traffic will be detoured through Ashville and Lockbourne, the same routes as used last week.

Rainfall in the 24 hours preceding 8 a. m. Monday was 1.19 inches. The rainfall so far this month totals approximately five inches. Normal precipitation for the entire month is three inches.

The lowest temperature recorded Sunday night was 45 degrees but colder weather was predicted for late Monday or Tuesday.

Streams throughout the county started falling Saturday afternoon, but early Monday they were reported steadily rising as the result of more rainfall.

The county engineer's office was notified Monday a temporary bridge over Salt Creek, south of Tilton, had been damaged by flood waters. The extent of the damage was not known.

Ira Oday, Randolph street, has sold his 22-acre farm in Walnut township to Henry Kuhn, Columbus, for $3,000, possession to be given March 1. Newton Hollingshead and wife who now occupy the O'Day farm, will remove to their own residence in Ashville immediately after their public sale, Tuesday, February 9.

Wendell Canter and family, in the Hollingshead property, are moving in Grace Fraunfelder's dwelling by the Methodist parsonage. Number one to get out, making this "grand shift" possible, was Mrs. Hazel Huber who removed to Chillicothe.

Good Lumber Needed

"The demand is good and we can sell all the good oak we can buy and convert into lumber," said Frank Conrad when we ask him about saw mill operations now. "Bridge floors and heavy railroad timbers are used in large quantities and there is scarcely no limit to the amount we could sell if we had it," he said. "And one of these days, and that is not so very far away, when good saw timber in this territory will be a thing of the past," he told us. Mr. Conrad has been a sawyer and hard lumber dealer for these many years, being associated for a long while with Marcus Rife of Walnut township in the hard wood saw and lumber business.

Cloud Plasterer, Too

Ralph Cloud, the dry cleaner, is a real artist when plastering is the subject. But that is not what we really are telling you about. He recently purchased a dwelling here that badly needed repair, and it's getting it, and when completed will be a most desirable piece of property and an ornament to the village. A "spic and span" club here, as in other towns, would make a wonderful improvement in the looks of things.

QUEZON SOUNDS FREEDOM NOTE FOR ISLANDS

MANILA, P. I., Jan. 18—(UP)

—Commonwealth President Manuel Quezon, in a vigorous speech to 15,000 ROTC cadets, said today that the Philippines will rely on its own military strength to maintain territorial integrity, and will become an independent nation despite opposition of organizations in the United States and at home.

Quezon expressed indignation at attempts of pacifist groups locally and abroad to "misrepresent the purposes of the Philippine army."

Outlining the purpose of the commonwealth's new military policy, now under direction of Major General Douglas MacArthur—former chief of staff of the United States army—Quezon said: "We aim to insure the safety of the Philippines and uphold its dignity and self respect."

"The world may rest assured that the Filipinos are determined to become independent and rely upon their own resources and manpower to maintain territorial integrity and national rights," Quezon said.

He addressed the cadets following a review on the campus of the University of Philippines.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

"After the Thin Man," starring William Powell and Myrna Loy, opened at the Cliftona Theatre yesterday, a sensational sequel to "The Thin Man," produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in response to remarkable public demand for another mystery by Dashiell Hammett.

Powell and Miss Loy excel their stellar performance in the original and the story is even more intriguing. A first rate supporting cast includes James Stewart, Elissa Landi, Joseph Calleia, Jessie Ralph and Asta, the smart little wire-haired terrier that played such a clever role in "The Thin Man."

The picture was directed by W. S. Van Dyke, talented director of the first picture, who is an ardent mystery story reader on his own accord. Hunt Stromberg, former star newspaper man, was the producer.

AT THE CIRCLE

Ruth Renick, stage and screen actress, is the player who owes her good fortune to the star.

Miss Sidney was seated outside the camera line as a throng of men and women, led by Miss Renick, began an "attack" on a prison.

FARM NEWS

Brief Items of Interest to Pickaway Farmers

Loans made by production credit associations in 1936 exceeded in volume loans made by any other federal agricultural credit agency.

Recent surveys made by federal authorities indicate there will be a sufficient supply of seed of soil-conserving to sow normal plantings and more if the supply is properly used.

Diverting acres from soil-depleting to soil-conserving uses will be the method by which the larger portion of total payments will be earned in 1937 on farms which have a tobacco base or which a soil-depleting base of more than 20 acres.

Livestock owners who believe that their animals are not receiving sufficient mineral in feeds can supply any lack by mixing 100 pounds bone meal, 100 pounds finely ground limestone, and 100 pounds salt. If animals have shown symptoms of lack of iodine the salt can be iodized by mixing one ounce of potassium iodide with 300 pounds of salt.

Agricultural projects which teach 4-H club members to make something needed on the farm or home have just as much educational value as those which require making some unneeded article. R. D. Barden, agricultural engineering department, Ohio State University, asks club members to decide what will be useful and then learn to make it.

Industrial uses for farm crops are not a cure for all agricultural ills, according to Alfred D. Stedman, assistant administrator of the AAA. He says the department of agriculture lends every encouragement to the development of industrial uses for farm products but he points out that in many cases, successful industrial utilization of farm crops often depends upon their purchase at a low price.

BERGEN ON CONTRACT

Edgar Bergen, the only new radio comedian to come to the top in more than a year, has been signed for a series of appearances on Rudy Vallee's Hour. He was introduced to the radio audiences in the Vallee show on Dec. 17 and made an immediate hit. After four consecutive appearances as a guest star he was signed as a regular performer.

Not since Bob Burns crossed the country in a secondhand car and drew his way to nationwide fame has a new radio comedian been discovered. Oddly enough Bergen is a ventriloquist, a kind of entertainer always classed with jugglers and magicians as "not for radio."

STATE ADMINISTRATOR URGED BY CHAIRMAN OF SHERRILL COMMITTEE

REPORT ADVISES BOARD OF SEVEN TO AID MANAGER

Amendment Necessary to Place Executive to Handle All Affairs of State

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Recommendation for the establishment of a state administrator, who would function in much the same manner as a city manager does for a municipality, was placed before Governor Davey today by Tullie V. Taylor, chairman of the Sherrill "action" committee.

The recommendation, representing Taylor's personal views in economical and efficient state government, provides for the application of modern business principles to the state governmental administrative structure. Taylor contended that administrative procedure has not kept in step with modern business methods and should be re-modeled.

Best at Low Cost

"If we are to have the best government at low cost, it is time for the state to adopt the type of business administration found to be most successful in well-managed large business enterprises," Taylor said.

His recommendations were directed at no administrative figure in state government, but at a system which has been a direct outgrowth of the popular type of government.

His recommendations centering around the "manager form" of state government were:

1.—Creation of a state administrator by constitutional amendment, his position to be comparable with that of executive vice presidency in industry.

2.—Establishment of an elective or appointive board of seven, with a rotating membership, to select the administrator and to serve in an advisory capacity on general administrative policies.

3.—The state administrator would serve at the pleasure of the board subject only to age, capability and good behavior. Under the administrator, would function all departments, boards, and commissions, with their personnel also holding their respective positions subject to age, efficiency and good conduct.

"All department heads and employees would be under the revitalized civil service recommended by the Sherrill Survey which would make civil service truly effective. With this system, ambitious men and women could choose state service for a career and might hope to aspire to the most important and honorable positions," Taylor said.

Making Suggestions

Asserting that he was acting on Governor Davey's instructions to make "suggestions for the general betterment of the state's service," Taylor expressed hope that the "major objectives will not become obscured by conflict over detail" in carrying out the recommendations.

The committee chairman, who was assistant to Col. C. O. Sherrill in conducting the survey of all state departments nearly two years ago, cited two reasons for making his recommendation:

1.—There should be a separation of the functions of formulating policies and enacting laws from the administrative duties of government.

2.—Custom and the people have imposed more duties on the office

AAA to Purchase Eggs In Remove Surplus

A federal purchase program, designed to remove surplus eggs from the market and to distribute them through relief channels, and also to encourage the hatching of a normal number of chickens for the current season, has been approved by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration announced today. The purchases will be made by the Commodities Purchase Section of the AAA, with distribution to be made by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation. The program will be financed with surplus removal funds available under Section 32 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act which makes 30 per cent of the customs receipts available for agricultural programs.

The purchase program has been inaugurated because of an unusually sharp drop in recent weeks in the wholesale and farm price of eggs. The wholesale price of eggs at New York City dropped from a high point of 43 cents a dozen in November to about 28 cents a dozen in early January, and it is estimated that there has been a similar decline in farm prices of eggs.

A rise in the farm and wholesale price of eggs might take place without increasing prices to consumers. Don Montgomery, Consumers' Counsel of the AAA, pointed out early this week that there has been a widening of the margin between retail and wholesale prices, and that prices to consumers had not dropped as much as wholesale and farm prices.

The program has also been inaugurated because, with the present low prices of eggs and relatively high feed costs, many producers are selling their hens. A continuation of this trend would result in a less than normal hatch of chickens this season, with higher than normal prices later in the year. A program which will make egg production more profitable to farmers will help prevent such a situation, poultry specialists of the AAA say.

The amount of eggs which will be purchased will depend upon upon the price situation, officials said. Purchases may be made on established mercantile exchanges, from organized egg auctions, from egg producer organizations, and from other egg dealers.

FEDERAL AGENTS GRILL TWO MORE IN BOY'S DEATH

Disgruntled Worker Hunted As Suspect in Mattson Abduction-Murder

TACOMA, Wash., Jan. 18.—(UP)—Federal agents, state and city police, searching out every possible suspect and running down every clue and report in the kidnap-murder of Charles Mattson, 10, today were reportedly concentrating their efforts on locating a disgruntled worker.

The suspect allegedly told his foreman on an Everett, Wash., WPA project that he didn't intend to starve "so long as there are rich men around here who have sons and love them."

Found Near Everett

It was near Everett that the naked body of Charles, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Mattson of Tacoma, was tossed into the underbrush while the physician waited to pay the $28,000 ransom demand.

The suspect answers the description of the bearded, swarthy kidnaper, even to the foreign accent noted in the federal bulletin which said the abductor probably came from one of the southern European countries.

The man was discharged from the government project the middle of December and has not been seen about his usual haunts since.

The fact that he was familiar with the Everett area where the body was left intensified the search. It also was near Everett that a pit was found in which young Mattson may have been imprisoned.

The FBI agents also were reported still interested in the background and recent movements of Lee Haskell Fowler, 36, held at Bellingham, Wash., where he is under 20-year sentence for robbery.

First Woman Held

A woman was held, too, today, the first to enter the case. She is Mrs. Ruth Graham, 34, picked up with Vachtang Tavdguidkze, 29-year-old Chinese born Russian yesterday. Tavdguidkze, who resembles the description of the kidnaper, was arrested by Capt. John Miller of the Seattle detective force for questioning in a recent burglary. He also is wanted in San Francisco in connection with a car theft. Captain Miller said.

DR. MORGAN MAY QUIT POSITION AS TVA DIRECTOR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—A long, bitter feud between directors of the Tennessee Valley Authority will end soon with the resignation of Dr. Arthur A. Morgan, TVA director, a source close to the White House reported today.

Morgan's first public appeal for a compromise with private utilities rather than a "fight to the finish" in the government's program for cheaper electricity was described as paving the way for him to quit.

The statement placed Morgan in direct conflict with David Lilienthal, TVA director in charge of the federal power program. It urged cooperative effort to end TVA's legal war with private utilities; Lilienthal insists that there be no compromise with TVA objectives.

Morgan and Lilienthal have disagreed on policy since TVA was launched almost four years ago. In the controversy now approaching a climax Lilienthal was said to have the full support of President Roosevelt.

Morgan opposed his associate's re-appointment last summer, but Mr. Roosevelt named him for a nine-year term. Morgan planned to resign then, but friends of the administration dissuaded him because of the possible effect on the president's election.

Morgan and Lilienthal have disagreed on policy since TVA was launched almost four years ago. In the controversy now approaching a climax Lilienthal was said to have the full support of President Roosevelt.

PANNING VITAMINS

ONE of a number of substitutes for our vanished and recently much-lamented frontiers is furnished, just for example, by vitamins, those mysterious qualities present to some extent in most foods but capable in concentration of exercising all sorts of beneficial influences on bodily chemistry.

The boy who in '49 might have set out with a banjo on his knee to pan wealth from the gold-bearing sands of California now sets out for college, also with a banjo on his knee, studies chemistry and ends up by panning vitamins from various neglected left-overs of human diet. Sudden fame is as possible in the one case as in the other, and sudden wealth is by no means impossible on this and other frontiers of the domain of science.

Nor are opportunities for sharing in the benefits of such pioneering confined solely to the discoverers, any more than the first explorers were exclusive beneficiaries of the riches of the old frontiers. Recently it was announced that the livers of pilchards and greyfish, abundant but more less inedible denizens of the ocean off British Columbia, have been found richer than any other known source in Vitamins A and D.

Now there is talk of a "billion dollar industry," to be built on the basis of this discovery. Instead of a gold rush, there is to be a pilchard and greyfish rush.

To some it will not sound so romantic, but that is a matter of taste, just as pioneering was a taste, even in '49. The fact remains that the frontiers of man's contact with Nature still exist, still are expanding and still are fruitful of fame and fortune for those who will seek them.

A CONTINUING JOB

PERMANENT highways have not yet been laid and it is highly probable that they never will be.

The work of road building in any part of the country is not done when the covering is removed from the concrete or asphalt and the shoulders are banked up to the pavement. It will not be long before repairs are required and changes will be deemed necessary. Roads wear out, weather conditions work heavy damage: great trucks carrying freight carloads smash and break them and pound their surfaces full of defects.

None of the roads put down, say five to 15 years ago, fully meet present-day requirements. They must be widened; new surfaces must be laid; curves must be modified; danger spots must be made safer; intersections must be improved; grade crossings must be eliminated. In many instances they must be practically rebuilt.

When road improvement was first

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up to find that the plague had slipped up on me overnight, its presence being announced by loud beating of drums within the cranium, so after an overlong steaming under the shower did turn to the medicine chest to partake of this and that, wishing the meatiest that could have the same confidence as manufacturers in their remedies. Always have been prone to place more confidence in practicing physicians than in the patents that "cure" everything from flat feet to falling hair. However, some of them must be effective for they continue selling, even in my house.

Belowstairs, finally, for what everyone else declared was coffee, but to me was just something warm. Baked at toast and soon staggered back to bed, taking all the Sunday paper that would carry and finding it so dull, what with only wars, rumors of wars, murders, floods, kidnappings and fatal auto crashes as story subjects, that soon dozed and for three hours left this troubled world. About noon decided that would live, so dressed and ventured downstairs for the second time. The bass drum dwindled down to snare size.

Looked out on a drizzle of cold rain and wondered whether and when winter will come. Pondered a conversation of the day before with Dave Sherwood, operator of the Ohio Wesleyan farm near Kingston. Farmer Sherwood called attention to the fact that the plight of the tiller of the soil is almost entirely due to the fact that he is told the price the consumer will pay for his product and likewise is told the price he must pay for anything he buys. Organization is what the farmer needs, but the very independence that is one of the chief attractions of farming tends to balk any movement toward mass action. The farmer is an individualist and everyone who buys his product profits because of the fact.

Farmers are frequent and always welcome visitors in the scrivener's office. They have a remarkable faculty for clear thinking and their reasoned opinions on almost any subject are almost invariably of value.

In the afternoon, feeling the need of fresh air, did crank up the wagon and take off for an inspection of the flood waters north and west of the city. Pleased to discover that the torrent was receding despite rain of the night and day and to hear comment that danger of additional damage is past. Heard one youngster lament that the season were not summer so that wading could be done, and another express desire for a freeze that would provide many acres of farm lakes for the tryout of Christmas skates. That's life, everyone wishing for something different.

A quiet evening before the radio and then after a sizzling glass of a widely known cold foe did turn in for a restless night.

SHAKE-UP PLAN FOUGHT

WASHINGTON — The President's government reorganization plan is due for heavy pounding IF it ever reaches the floors of Congress. The "if" is a very big one.

It is a good bet that the sweeping five-point program recommended by Roosevelt will never get out of committee. Some kind of reorganization legislation will be enacted, but the chances of its following Roosevelt's model are remote.

That plan is certain to be subjected to drastic revamping. The left, right and center are vehemently opposed to one or more phases of it. Such a combination of forces will ensure extensive changes.

The liberals will go along on the proposals for two new departments, enlarging the White House staff, extending the civil service system and curbing the power of the Comptroller General to obstruct expenditures. But they are up in arms over the demand that the independent agencies, such as the Trade Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission and Power Commission, be placed under the jurisdiction of the regular departments.

Such a move, they indignantly contend, would mean the politicalizing of these agencies.

The rank-and-file among the Democrats also look askance at the proposal, and privately, are none too enthusiastic about the idea of expanding the civil service. They will not fight this openly—but under cover it will be scuttled, if they can help it.

The Republicans—largely for partisan reasons—will join vociferously with the liberals in attacking the proposal to put the independent agencies under the Cabinet.

During the Coolidge regime they tried to put through a scheme very similar to this. The Democrats, then in the minority, violently opposed it. But now, that the Republicans are the outs, they will yell murder.

started, little was known about building highways as we consider them at present and a great many mistakes were made, not only in the building but in their location. Hard roads were laid in unnecessary places in those years, for it was all under the direction of local officials and such a thing as a state system was not contemplated.

The result is that in every state the work of rebuilding is perhaps as extensive as new work. And this must go on—for there will be little or no reduction in the extent of automotive traffic. We must keep mending and improving our "ways," year after year, making them better all the time.

Old-Fashioned Treatment for Colds Still Good

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

EVERY YEAR about this time, this department receives many letters from generous-minded readers giving us methods of preventing colds. Many of these are accompanied by a recommendation to the effect that the user has not had a cold for 30 years, sometimes 20 years. In general, the remedies are harmless and may give mental aid.

fort to the user, but the phrase that a person has not had a cold for 20 years suggests more that he has come into the period of immunity from colds rather than that any particular remedy will actually prevent them.

We eventually acquire immunity to colds, and people over 40 are seldom subject to them. They are certainly not as likely to catch a cold once or twice a year as those at the age of 20. Those who do catch cold over the age of 40 are likely to be the ones with chronic respiratory trouble of the nose or lungs, as described in the article yesterday.

The commonest recommendation for the prevention of colds that reaches this column is the use of fruit and fruit juices, especially lemons and oranges and grapefruit. Undoubtedly these natural fruits are useful through the winter and help to keep the body neutral. Another favorite remedy is the use of sodium bicarbonate to alkaline the body. As I say, these are harmless and can be tried by anyone who wishes, but prevention of colds is certainly not guaranteed from their use.

Not Much Progress Made
We have not made much progress in the treatment of colds since the days of our grandmothers, and I believe the old-fashioned heating and sweating system is as good as anything for treatment.

A preliminary cold which does not fasten itself on the basis of a chronic infection of the nose, throat or lungs, runs an acute course of about three days, with a recovery period of about two weeks in which the sufferer is more uncomfortable to his neighbors than to himself. The first day, as we said yesterday, ushers in the cold with a raw uncomfortable feeling in the throat, tightness in the nose, a decided sense of chilliness on the surface of the body. This latter symptom is a point of attack by treatment which has proved itself through the years. If, on the first day, the victim is lucky enough to be at home where a faithful relative can give him, or her, the "works," this is what should be done:

A hot mustard foot-bath before an open fire or a radiator. A teaspoon of domestic mustard tied in a muslin bag, should be allowed to soak in a quart of cold water. Do not put the mustard in hot water because that, if first applied, will not extract essential oils from the mustard. When the patient is ready a gallon of water at 110 or 120 degrees F. may be added. Remember that the feet are more sensitive to hot water than the hands. While taking the foot-bath, the patient should drink a glass of very hot lemonade with five grains of aspirin. And then get into bed, well covered up, until the reaction with sweating sets in.

There is no good scientific explanation of the effectiveness of this treatment, although there are some suggestions. Winternitz found that heat or cold applied to the feet would increase intracranial circulation.

The dilation of all the surface blood vessels makes the patient more comfortable and seems to induce a reflex action.

CHAPTER 52

"THERE was someone to let the murderer in," Selden went on as he unfolded the mystery. "And a murderer who was so well known that his presence in the village was quite natural."

"I don't see that that follows at all. It is a mere theory that could easily have been wrong," Hutchins grumbled. "It might, for example, have been someone who came to the village only at night, or even was hiding in the house."

"I know. I had many ideas, but I am only dealing with the one that led to results. I tried everything, and this held together."

"I saw that I must approach the problem at the other end, and announced to you, Hutchins, to your secret pleasure, that I was returning to London."

"You did," the inspector said grimly.

"I had one great advantage over you, Hutchins, and that is why I have been lucky. I had access to documents at Scotland Yard and sources of information, and was able to put one of our best men on to look up certain facts while I returned here in the simple disguise of a woman. That's the best of being young and good-looking, Hutchins." Selden grinned at the inspector. "I made quite an attractive female, with a little paint and a wig. I attended the inquest and the funeral, and found that Hucks was a bit of a gay Lothario and fond of whiskey. We carried on a mild flirtation with one another, a morose and rather liquorish on his part, and coquetish on my part. I got some useful information. I found that Hucks was in the habit of going out at nights, but never in the day, and, what was more important, that Mrs. Thornton was in very close terms with him. I heard them quarrelling one day, and then Hucks made a bad slip. He said that his mistress did not approve of me. Now, as there was no woman in the hotel except an old cook and the maids, I began to see daylight. He told me quite a lot about his past life when half drunk, but nothing that would implicate him in any way."

"After my nightly talk with our friend Hucks, I found out that he left the house. He could not do so during the day or he would have been extremely clever. He would leave everything up, and then slip out through an old door into the garden. I shadowed him, of course, and he went to Colonel Graham's house, but the bloodhounds frightened him off—it was the night that you dined with the Colonel, Reid."

"I am hardly likely to forget that."

"I had already put my hand on Mrs. Thornton as the accomplice in the house—Mrs. Thornton, the only one with the necessary character and daring—for the others were country girls, and when she had the effrontery to come to Hutchins and myself, I could see that she was a dangerous woman, and she thought attack was the safest line of defense."

"She protested too much, and her statement rang false. She was very evidently trying to throw suspicion on Eric Colindale and Lady Severing on account of the rather ambiguous relations that existed between them. Having failed in that, she tried to implicate James, with the results you all know."

"So much for my researches on judicial minds. They are usually slow to make decisions, but these are said to be almost always correct."

Metzgers Celebrate Sixtieth Anniversary

Many Friends Gather For Sunday Dinner Honoring Couple

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Metzger, of Jackson township, who celebrated the 60th anniversary of their marriage, Sunday, Jan. 17, their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Metzger, of Williamsport, entertained at dinner at noon.

Their relatives and close friends joined in the celebration of this unusual event. Dinner was served in a private dining room at the Wardell Party Home, two long tables being arranged for the service. One table, where the honor guests and the older relatives were seated, was centered with a large cake covered with white icing and bearing 60 lighted white candles. Tall white tapers in high crystal holders were placed at the ends of the table. The other table was arranged in the same manner with the exception of the cake, the centerpiece being sweet peas and ferns in a lovely bowl. The white decorative theme was further carried out in the use of white carnations as favors, and in the dainty placecards.

A four-course dinner was served.

Included in the guest list were Mr. and Mrs. Chester Valentine, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Noggle, of Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Metzger, daughter Catherine Lee and son Robert Hiram, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kibby, Miss Laura McGhee, of Williamsport; Miss Nita Rhoades, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. After dinner, the group went to the home in Jackson township where Mr. and Mrs. Metzger have lived for the last 50 years. They were presented many attractive and useful gifts.

The remainder of the afternoon was passed in reminiscing and social visiting.

Mrs. Peters Feled

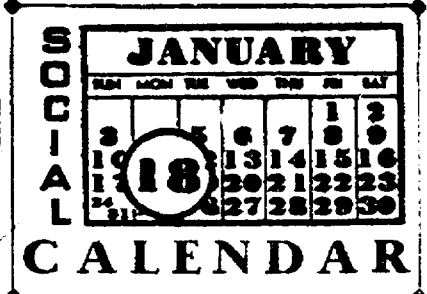

Mrs. Richard Peters, of Ashville, the former Mary Alice Scothorn, and a bride of Christmas day, was the honor guest Saturday at the home of Mrs. Chester Rockey, Ashville, when a few of Mrs. Peters' relatives and intimate friends were entertained.

Mrs. Rockey was assisted by the Misses Elizabeth Cromley and Mary Lou East in dispensing hospitality. Guests were invited for two o'clock.

Many unusual and beautiful gifts were taken for the miscellaneous shower with which Mrs. Peters was honored.

A replica of an old fashioned well was erected in one end of the living room, and the gifts which had been concealed in the well were raised in an old oaken bucket by means of a windlass. Much interest and pleasure was evidenced in opening the presents.

At the conclusion of an afternoon of social visiting, a buffet lunch was served in the dining

MINNESOTA EDGED 23-22

'Firewagon' Game to Be Seen
With Lead at Stake

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Purdue comes face to face tonight with the greatest threat to its Big Ten basketball title in the week's headlines against Illinois, last of the dark horses.

A withering drive bringing four straight victories placed the Boilermakers far ahead of the pack in the conference standings. Only Illinois, beaten once but stronger than ever, was conceded a chance to halt the defending champions. Ohio State risks its perfect record against Indiana at Bloomington. Iowa plays at Wisconsin. Minnesota meets Northwestern at Evanston and Michigan moves against Chicago on the final leg of its road trip.

Purdue was a slight favorite to hold its lead. After its crushing defeat of Indiana, 41 to 30, Purdue was declared virtually unbeatable by the present conference crop.

Illinois Team Fast
But Illinois was the first to defeat Indiana, and its 42 to 28 victory over Iowa was mar more decisive than Purdue's four point triumph. By shifting Harry Combes to forward from guard, Coach Doug Mills brought out the highest scoring combination on his squad. Both Purdue and Illinois play the same firewagon game. The Boilermakers have scored only four more points than the Illini but possess a superior defensive record.

Two defeats in a row for Indiana will make the co-champions a difficult obstacle for undefeated Ohio State. The Buckeyes scored their second victory Saturday over

Indians Trade Vosmik To St. Louis Brownies

CLEVELAND, Jan. 18.—(UP)—With the major league's "Trader Horn," Rogers Hornsby, on one end and the Cleveland Indians at the other, the biggest off-season baseball deal of the year had been completed today.

In an effort to bolster clubs which were distinct disappointments during the 1936 season, the Indians sent Outfielder Joe Vosmik, Infielder Bill Knickerbocker and Pitcher Oral Hildebrand to the Browns in exchange for Julius Solters, an outfielder, Lyn Lary, infielder; and pitcher Ivy Paul Andrews.

The trade was proposed by Hornsby and accepted by Cyril Slapnicka of the Indians after he had received the approval of Manager Steve O'Neil and President Alva Bradley. The player swap was considered the most important made by the Indians in 20 years. It was in 1916 that the Cleveland engineered a memorable trade that brought to it the immortal Tris Speaker.

With the departure of Vosmik, the Cleveland club will lose one of the most popular figures to wear an Indian uniform in recent years. A product of the city's sandlots, Vosmik made his professional debut in 1929 and in 1931 broke into the regular Indian lineup.

He had a banner season his first year up. In 1933 he slumped however, and hit only .263. In 1934 he came back to hit .341 and followed it with a .348 mark in 1935.

Vosmik had another off-year last season and was one of the principal reasons for the failure of the Indians.

OWENS PICKED AS OUTSTANDING TRACK ATHLETE

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Jesse Owens' amateur honors ended today with the selection of the Ohio State negro for four berths on the Amateur Athletic Union's all-America track and field team, picked annually by Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer.

The only rival of Owens, who recently turned professional, was Donald Lash, the long striding senior of Indiana, named for three of the longer distance runs. Owens was chosen for the 100 and 200 meter dashes, the 200 meter hurdles and the broad jump. Lash was picked for the 5,000 and 10,000 meters and the cross-country run.

There were five negroes and 27 white athletes named for the mythical team with the colored boys getting every sprint assignment up to 600 meters. Ralph Metcalfe of the Marquette club was the 60-meter choice and Archie Williams, University of California, 400 meter. Eddie O'Brien of the New York A. C., was picked for the 900 meters, but John Woodruff, Pittsburgh negro, was chosen for the 800.

OHIO U. MEETS MARSHALL TEAM IN CRUCIAL TILT

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Championship aspirants of the Buckeye and the Ohio conferences today pointed for crucial contests that may make or break their title hopes.

Ohio University and Marshall, tied for the lead in the Buckeye, set the sights of their court artillery for a meeting at Huntington, W. Va. Saturday night. From out of that meeting will emerge the quintet that definitely will be favored to replace Cincinnati and Ohio Wesleyan as the compact little circuit's ruler.

Marshall stepped back into a tie with Ohio U. over the week-end when it displayed impressive form to turn back Ohio Wesleyan 36 to 27 at Delaware. The win was the third straight in league ranks for Cam Henderson's five.

Ohio U. gets an opportunity to edge back into the lead however, tomorrow night at Athens when it meets the University of Dayton.

Dayton fell before Miami in a close battle Saturday, 30 to 29. The defeat of the Flyers and the Redskins' triumph threw those teams into a three-way tie with Cincinnati for third place in the standings. Each has one victory and two defeats.

Wesleyan, beaten in eight consecutive contests, three of which were Buckeye games, holds down the cellar position.

Muskingum continued to set a fast pace in the Ohio conference over the week-end when it edged a determined Wittenberg team 37 to 34. The victory was the Muskies' sixth straight in league ranks.

LECTURER TAKES JUNGLE LEOPARD TO SCHOOLROOM

CAPE TOWN (UP)—An exciting motor drive with a live leopard enabled a natural history lecturer to produce an unusual exhibit in his class room at Wolseley, near Cape Town.

The lecturer had promised his pupils to show them a live leopard when one was captured. He was able to keep his word when a full-grown specimen six feet long was trapped.

The animal was roped and driven off in a car. All went well till a dog barked as the automobile passed the town. The leopard reared and struck out at the dog, tearing the upholstery of the car.

The lecturer took the beast into his classroom and lectured on leopards and their habits. The lecture was followed with rapt attention, and was only occasionally interrupted by the leopard's angry mauls and roars. The leopard was shot afterward.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK

by R. J. SCOTT

CONTRACT BRIDGE

BAD LEAD COST GAME

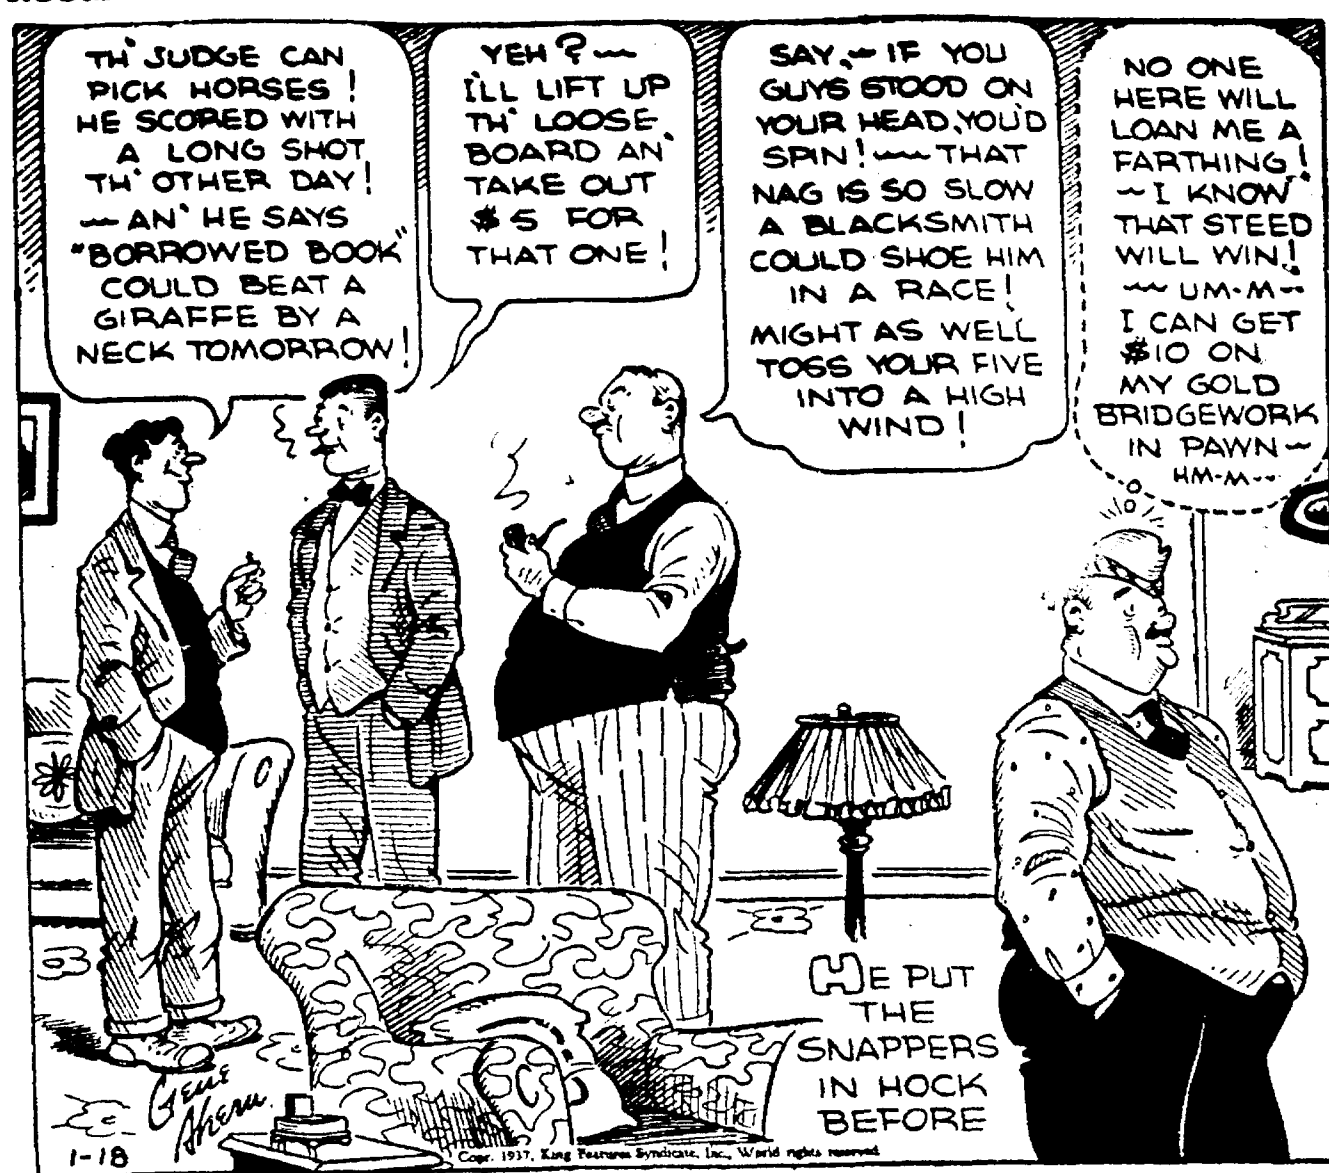

WHEN DECIDING whether to lead your own long suit or that bid by partner, against a strong no trump call made directly over partner's suit bid, carefully analyze all circumstances, before making the lead which may decide the no trump's fate. Had my partner considered everything last evening in an important trophy team-of-four contest, it would have made a difference in score of 700 points. Opponents were vulnerable. We were not vulnerable.

My partner studied his hand for some time, then instead of leading his own long suit of hearts, he led his doubleton spades. Declarer captured my J of spades with his Q, then three rounds of clubs were led. On the last two clubs I let go my two lowest spades. North finally won our first defensive trick with his Ace of clubs. He led back his fourth-best heart. My K held the trick. I led my 10 of hearts, taking declarer's last card of that suit. North overtook the 10 and removed dummy's Ace, but it was too late to defeat the contract. Dummy won two club tricks, then a low diamond was led through my K. The J won on a finesse and the Ace of diamonds and Ace of spades were taken. Two tricks in spades, 1 in hearts, 4 in clubs and 2 in diamonds yielded just game.

Had my partner led his own heart suit, West never could have gone game. South's K of hearts would have won the first heart trick. The 10 would have been led back and overtaken with North's Ace from dummy, still holding the Ace of clubs, to insure two added heart tricks when he secured entry to dummy's longest suit. It was too bad.

Hog Caller

INTRODUCING his highness,
Tom Bevington—high hat hog caller. Until recently, Tom was a typical farmer on a typical farm in the hills near Cleveland, Ohio. Then came an invitation to call hogs and square dance numbers at a party given in New York's Waldorf Astoria
by Miss Elsa Maxwell, socialite.
Wearing his newfound laurels with ease, Tom is now called
"The High Hat Hog Caller."

EX-FHA DIRECTOR FACES DIVORCE COURT HEARING

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.,
Jan. 18 — (UP) — Mrs. James A.
Moffett planned a "friendly" divorce action today against her husband, the Standard Oil executive and former federal housing administrator.

"It will be entirely on a friendly basis," she said, refusing to discuss details.

Close friends said Mrs. Moffett's attorneys had written her husband in New York and asked him to file a voluntary appeal. Under Florida law such an application would clear the way for the divorce proceedings.

It was understood that Moffett had not replied. Should he decline to file the papers, he could be served by publication in Palm Beach county.

DENHARDT GOES BEFORE JURORS IN TAYLOR CASE

NEWCASTLE Ky., Jan. 18 —
(UP) — Brig. Gen. Henry H.
Denhardt went before a Henry county grand jury today to insist again that he did not kill his socially prominent fiancée, Mrs.
Verna Garr Taylor, and to offer his evidence.

The grand jury was called to meet to consider an indictment of the former lieutenant governor and adjutant general on a charge of murdering the comely widow during a ride on a lonely country road the night of Nov. 5.

The commonwealth's evidence, as far as disclosed, centered on a series of ballistics and blood tests,
the testimony of several farmers, and Denhardt's admission that a bullet from his own service pistol caused Mrs. Taylor's death.

Denhardt's attorneys said they will attack reliability of the ballistics and blood tests. They have at least one witness to substantiate
Denhardt's story of innocence, they said.

NO TRIALS BOOKED

No jury cases are scheduled in

GUEST STABBED DURING BANQUET

Cicero's table. That started a barrage of dishes and other missiles. Whalen tried to go on.
The orchestra leader waved his baton and a popular tune drowned out the noise. Many guests, unaware of the fight, started dancing.

A crowd of men and women was brawling around Cicero's table.
Fists were swinging. Food was spilled on evening gowns and white shirt bosoms. Women screamed. Suddenly, Cicero slum-ped to the floor and the fighting stopped. He was carried out to an elevator and taken to the first floor where an ambulance surgeon announced that he had died of three wounds, two just below the heart and one in his left side.

Weapon Missing

Police said Cicero had been stabbed either by a table knife or a penknife. They could not find the weapon.

In the banquet hall waiters restored order. Doors were locked.
Police told all guests to sit at the tables they had occupied when the fight began. They attempted to reenact the slaying.
